Willa Nelson has obtained her membership of the Royal

Australasian College of Physicians.

Miss Ogilvie had three months' leave from the Rachel Forster Hospital to establish a Family Welfare Bureau for members of the fighting services and their dependants; she is still acting as honorary supervisor.

Miss Millicent Armstrong is at present in Sydney working for the Lord Mayor's Fund.

Rhoda Palmer returned to Australia last October after ten months' abroad, six of which she spent continuing her work at the London Hospital, Whitechapel.

Ruth Pearce has been appointed secretary to the headmaster of Tudor House School, Moss Vale.

Jean Pocock is now the senior mistress at the Newcastle Girls' Grammar School.

Beryl Pringle and Marjorie Rouse have finished their course in dietetics at R.P.A.H. and have received appointments to the dietetic staff; Jean Stephens is continuing on the same staff for a second year.

Marjorie Ross has found it possible to resume teaching again, and is on the staff of the Girls' High School in her home town of Maitland.

Doris Selby has begun private practice in Killara.

Nancy Sheehan is greatly enjoying her work in the Australian Broadcasting Commission as secretary to the Artists' Tours Committee; so also is Betty McCay in the Educational Broadcast section.

Anne Sippe is doing voluntary work in the hospital at Vacaos, Mauritius, on two days a week.

Doris Skyring is doing a locum tenens in Rockhampton for a doctor who is on active service.

Margaret Taylor has been in the office of the University Appointments Board since November, taking Beth Newman's place there.

Margaret Telfer has been appointed a Councillor of the Women's College.

Betty Thom did a course of library training in Sydney from April to November, 1939. In June, 1940, she received an appointment as librarian to the Munitions Laboratory at Maribyrnong, Victoria.

Hope Tillyard, after doing a course in art at the Polytechnic School in London, had a very wonderful nine months in the art world of Paris. She had a fortnight's sketching in the south of France just before war was declared, when she returned to London.

Pat Tillyard, after spending a few months in New Zealand teaching at her old school at Nelson, was on her way to London to do a course of library training when war was declared. Her boat, the Port Fairy, was just rounding the