

B. Roberts, B.A.—Entered College 1913. Popularly known as Bunny Rabbits. Undergraduates' Committee, president of the C.U., and assistant secretary for the Glee Club. In the scanty leisure allowed by her official duties she endeared herself to all. Was an indefatigable answerer of the telephone—we trust with no ulterior motive. Graduated December, 1914. Is now in the Public Library.

Jean Alexander.—Came to our bosom as a comely young fresher in the year of Grace 1913, causing some confusion by her likeness to her chronic friend Tweedledee. Hockey blue 1914. Sub-librarian. Left College after two years, leaving an obviously aching void. Was hockey captain, president of the C.U., and a member of the S.U.W.S.A. committee. Gone, but not forgotten.

Marjory Ross.—Entered College 1913. Sub-librarian. After a brief sojourn in Arts she is now in second year medicine. By her departure she has caused a grievous break in the dynasty of the Rosses, which breach we hope will be healed next year.

H. Denny.—A planet from another sphere who gladdened us for a brief space. Always ready to please, and of artistic and dramatic talents of no mean order—witness her celebrated performance in the Fresher's concert.

J. Anderson.—Entered 1914. A leading light among the Freshers in their entertainments. Has now forsaken the drudgery of examinations to be a freelance at the University.

L. Windeyer.—Entered 1914. Another promising career cut short. Following in the family traditions, she was our social success.

E. Smith.—Entered 1914. Has retired from College and the enervating influence of Planchette. We hope to see her again next year. Bearing a name of such scientific distinction, she will no doubt be a credit to avuncular traditions.
