

Three of the College students took their degrees in medicine this March. Dr. Marjory Little and Dr. Dorothy Voss are now on the resident staff of Prince Alfred, while Dr. Ettie Exton is at the Children's Hospital.

Dr. Isabel Ormiston, who has won great honour in Belgium, is now on the staff of a voluntary hospital in Servia.

Miss Maude Fitzhardinge, Miss Janet Brown, Miss Laura Houston, Miss Mabel Dunlop, and Miss Connie Watson are all on the staff of the Girls' High School, Elizabeth-street.

Miss Rachel Lewers, Miss Bonney Roberts, and Miss Molly Barrington have deserted the teaching profession and entered the Public Library.

Miss Kitty Moir this year took her M.A. with first-class honours in modern languages. She is now on the staff of the Presbyterian Ladies' College.

Miss Nell Hinder and Miss Marjory Henson are on the staff of the North Sydney Girls' High School.

Miss Evelyn Watson is teaching at the Brisbane Technical College.

Results of examinations, 1914:—

Arts III.—D. Glasgow, second-class honours in History; B. Roberts.

Arts II.—G. Newbery, Cooper Scholarship for Classics; M. Collisson, Professor Wood's Prize for History, credit in Latin; J. Alexander, distinction in History.

Arts I.—P. Smith, high distinction in Mathematics; M. Macaulay, distinction in Mathematics, credit in German; P. Mander-Jones, distinction in French and German.

Science III.—K. English, second-class honours in Botany.

Science I.—L. Beveridge, Levey Scholarship for Physics and Chemistry, high distinction in Physics and Botany, distinction in Chemistry, Professor Haswell's prize for Zoology, high distinction and scholarship in Mathematics; E. Chase, credit in Geology; M. Lilley and E. Smith.

Medicine V.—E. Exton, D. Voss, M. Little.

Medicine III.—E. Sandford and H. Braye.

Medicine I.—A. Mitchell, credit in Chemistry.

The same friend—who by the way has had most of these experiences—was addressed as follows by a tall young woman with a drooping expression and a sentimental smile, on the back verandah, "I suppose you have great fun with the boys." Pauls happened to be playing tennis at the time! Another lady looked round the library, gave a gentle smile, and murmured, "How lovely! I suppose you have read them all."

The Public Opinion of College can be demonstrated by one last story. Two men stood looking at the College motto. "Tog-eth-er," said one, "Is it Norwegian?" "No," was the answer, "it is 'To get her,' but I think it really should be 'To get him.'"

PAST AND PRESENT.

"Come you again or come no more,
Across the world you keep the pride,
Across the world we mark the score."

—Newbolt.

A great many of the old students of the Women's College are at present in England. In fact, before the outbreak of the war there was quite a reunion of college girls in London.

Dr. Elsie Dalyell was at that time doing research work at the Lister Institute, but she is now pathologist on the staff of a voluntary hospital at Uskut, Servia.

Miss Millie Armstrong is still in England, where she is making arrangements for the publication of a novel.

Miss Dorothy Edwards was married this year to Captain Blackwood, R.N., who is in command of the destroyer "Look-out."

Miss Laurie Edwards' engagement to Dr. Ingram has lately been announced. He was severely wounded at Neuve Chapelle, but is now out of danger.

Miss Jessie Lillingstone, Miss Marian Windeyer, and Dr. Buckley are all making extended visits to the Old Country.

Miss Donna Tearne leaves this week on a visit to Fiji.